

GREG LARSEN

Greg Larsen is a multi-award-winning actor, writer, and director.

Greg began his career writing YouTube sketches and performing stand-up comedy in Brisbane in 2008. After touring around the country performing live and amassing millions of views online, Greg moved to Melbourne. This is where he achieved critical acclaim for a stage show that he co-created and directed Fancy Boy Variety Show. This was a sell-out show at the 2014 Melbourne International Comedy Festival and not only got five-star reviews but also won the Golden Gibbo Award for best independent comedy.

Since winning that award Greg went on to appear as an actor in numerous projects such as Dirty Laundry Live, How Not to Behave, and The Let Down, and was also given the chance to co-write, and co-star in a Fancy Boy TV series. One episode from that series went on to win the Australian Writer's Guild Award for best sketch comedy in 2017.

Greg achieved more online and live success with the parody group: True Australian Patriots. Consisting of himself, Anne Edmonds, and Damien Power, they produced dozens of viral videos, were featured on The Weekly, and performed a live show at the Brisbane, and Melbourne Comedy Festivals. This show went on to win the 2016 Director's Choice Award at the Melbourne International Comedy Festival. Greg returned to the stage in 2019, touring his stand-up solo show, Useful Idiot. In 2021, Greg's one-man play about life on the dole scored him the coveted comedians' choice Piece of Wood Award at the Melbourne International Comedy Festival, and in 2022 he was nominated for Most Outstanding Show at the Melbourne International Comedy Festival for his new show, We All Have Bloody Thoughts.

Greg has written and performed on the acclaimed ABC comedy Get Krack!n and was the co-writer of two episodes of Ronny Chieng: International Student, a Comedy Central/ABC co-production that also aired on the BBC. Greg was one of the four reporters on the ABC's Tonightly with Tom Ballard – in his role as a daily reporter Greg wrote, performed, directed, and oversaw the edit of daily video packages. Greg has contributed his writing talents to Channel Ten's The Project and wrote and performed in the ABC's Covid-19-inspired comedy At Home Alone Together. He can be seen in the Stan Original series The Tourist and the second season of the American sitcom Young Rock.

In 2023 Greg featured as part of the core cast of the new sketch comedy series We Interrupt This Broadcast on Seven. Greg will also reprise his role as Ethan in the second season of The Tourist.

Greg makes up one-third of The Grub, a weekly sketch comedy podcast alongside Anne Edmonds and Ben Russell.