

LUCINDA PRICE

Lucinda Price is a writer, presenter and comedian who is fast becoming one of Australia's most exciting entertainers.

Best-known as her online moniker @froomes, Lucinda is also the CEO of FROOMESWORLD, an international one-woman business specialising in scripting, producing, presenting and editing original content.

As an interviewer, Lucinda is known for her cheeky wit and ability to connect and build rapport with people from all walks of life. She's interviewed the likes of Dua Lipa, Charli XCX, Flume, Mark Ronson and Samuel L Jackson. She's as comfortable on a red carpet in a pair of Louboutins as she is in a two-dollar shop mullet at SEXPO.

She has spoken on panels at The Wheeler Centre, Emerging Writers' Festival, Digital Writers' Festival and has performed live as part of Giant Dwarf's Nailed It and Poems for Paws. She has also created original podcasts including Waiting For A D8 and No Chill. She's featured on ABC's A Rational Fear and is a regular guest on The Friday Shake Up on Triple J. Lucinda's TV credits include ABC's At Home Alone Together, in a sketch she wrote and edited.

Previously 'The Face' of PEDESTRIAN.TV, she has an innate understanding of the intersection between youth media and advertising. She's worked with global brands like Nike, Swarovski, Contiki and Visa on everything from video content right through to live events.

With a passion for taking the piss across multi-platform media, Lucinda is one of the country's most promising young creatives.
