

SANDY McINTYRE (they/them)

Sandy McIntyre is an actor, model, writer, and presenter. They're redefining beauty standards and breaking barriers with their unique voice and unwavering authenticity. Through their work as a presenter and producer; Sandy amplifies important conversations, using their platform to shine a light on inclusivity and diversity. With passion, grace, and an unyielding spirit, Sandy embodies the strength and resilience of the LGBTQIA+ community

In 2020, Sandy created their online platform Queerful; a space to tell queer stories and share our lived experiences. They've walked the runway for Camilla, Acler, Dom Bagnato, STAX and have closed for Jack London during Fashion Week. They became the first Australian Non-Binary ambassador for Kérastase, have starred in Superwog's online series (2022), as well as Touch (2023), The Crop Tops (2025) and had a supporting role in season two of Mikki VS The World for the ABC (2022).

They've captured the attention of some of the countries and world's leading brands, from Tourism Australia, MECCA, Kiehls, 7-Eleven, The Body Shop and beyond. Sandy has been featured in both ELLE and Harpers Bazaar for their work and with their first television show currently in development, they are an exciting force to be reckoned with.
